

■ The Atlantean Rosary — Student Manual

■ Preparing Your Beads

- Place the beads in a bag or clean piece of linen. Carry them with you for several days (in a pocket, not a purse).
- Sleep with them under your pillow. This attunes them to your vibration.
- Wash your hands thoroughly before handling the beads. Add a little salt to the water as a ritual cleanser.
- Keep a bound notebook dedicated to your Rosary work, large enough to last at least a year.

■■ Ritual Preparation (Cleansing & Consecration)

Water and Salt

- Collect pure water (ideally from spring or well). Charge it with light from your heart, saying:
"Be cleansed, thou Creature of Water! There is cast out from thee all that is impure and harmful. Be thou blessed in the name of that which created thee."

- Charge sea salt in the same way as Creature of Earth.
- Mix a little salt into the water, then draw an equal-armed cross before, behind, and on either side of your chair. Touch your forehead with the mixture.

Invocation of Protection

"I invoke the Guardians of the Soul to watch to my right side and to my left side, before me and behind me, above and below me, that I may work within the sphere of light and to the greater understanding of my spirit."

■ The Work

- Thread beads in one session (1.5 hours minimum). This is itself a meditation.
- Handle each bead slowly, contemplating its meaning before knotting it into the cord.
- Once complete, store in silk or a wooden box. Wait until the right moment (new tide, birthday, solstice) to begin work.
- Work daily: one week per bead, with a week of assimilation between sets.
- Record your notes, realizations, and experiences faithfully in your Rosary journal.
